$2,700,000 STATE GRANT TO FUND FULL-DAY PRESCHOOL

Submitted by: Rob Kinch

What could be more important to parents or guardians than the health, happiness, and success of their child? From the first day of their child's journey through life, they are there to ensure that his or her needs be continually met, often putting their own needs on hold out of necessity. Skill development begins instantaneously for the child and, before too long, a first step is taken or a first word spoken (hopefully, it's not "No!"). Of equal importance is the child's intellectual development. "Is my child truly ready for the intense rigors of kindergarten?" "Shouldn't he/she be successful at more sophisticated addition and subtraction?" Questions such as these frequently plague the minds of so many parents. It is here that Rahway's educators are reassuring them, "We will see to it."

At the heart of this promise is Rahway Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Patricia Camp, who places ensuring the grade level appropriate skill readiness of her youngest students high on her list of priorities. She is steadfast in her drive to see that "every child in Rahway is reading on or above grade level by the end of 3rd grade." To that end, she envisions "universal preschool for every four year old in Rahway." Why? As Dr. Camp explains, "An early start is absolutely the right thing to do because it's critical for a child's subsequent academic success."

On August 1, 2017, School Districts throughout the State were notified by the New Jersey Department of Education of a funding opportunity in Preschool Education Expansion Aid (PEEA) for the 2017-2018 school year. Funded through the NJDOE Division of Early Childhood and Family Engagement, this grant would facilitate increased access to high-quality preschool programs within high-need communities. The basic requirements were that districts do one of two things: 1) if preschool is half day, then the classes must go to full day, or 2) if a district already offers full day preschool, it must offer it to more students.

Recognizing at once the invaluable educational opportunities this funding would provide to the preschoolers of her district, Dr. Camp immediately enlisted an administrative team to liaise with her to establish a goal, to create partnerships, and to generate a budget to ensure submission of a quality application for the rapidly approaching August 21 deadline. Members of the team included Assistant Superintendent of Instruction Dr. Debra Sheard, Program Supervisor of Literacy Ms. Tiffany Lynch-Ber, and Program Supervisor of Special Education and Early Childhood Education Ms. Barbra Pyne. Together the team agreed that they must do what they could to provide the highest quality preschool for the most children. It was then clearly apparent; there was no other choice but to propose fulfilling both requirements by transitioning to full-day AND by increasing student enrollment as well!

With support by the National Institute of Early Education Research (NIEER) at Rutgers University in writing the grant, the application and supporting documentation were finalized and approved by the Rahway Board of Education on August 22. On September 1, 2017, Rahway Public Schools was notified by the NJDOE that it had been approved for an initial award of over $2,700,000 in PEEA for the 2017-2018 school year. Board President, Ms. Lori Kennedy, proudly comments, "I would like to thank Dr. Camp, Dr. Sheard, Ms. Lynch-Ber, and Ms. Barbara Pyne and all the many others involved in writing the grant and then putting together a complicated program in such a short period of time, enabling this wonderful opportunity to become a reality."

The Rahway School District currently offers a half day preschool program to 150 four-year-old children at four elementary schools. The PEEA grant will enable the district to expand its offerings to include full day preschool to four-year-olds free of charge. To that end, the district has added an additional classroom in each of its four elementary schools, as well as four additional classrooms in Rahway's 7th and 8th Grade Academy, in a wing dedicated to preschool. With this expansion, Rahway schools can now provide full day preschool to 260 children. "This funding will benefit the youngest learners in Rahway," affirms Asst. Superintendent Dr. Sheard. "It will set a trajectory of success for our little ones and set them on a clear path to level appropriate skill mastery."

In an effort to maximize learning opportunities for the new little 'full-timers', the administrative team have focused themselves not just on meeting grant requirements but on surpassing them as well. Although PEEA requires that teachers be Preschool-3 certified and that paraprofessionals have a minimum of 60 college credits, many of Rahway's new teachers possess dual certification (i.e., Elementary, Special Ed) and many of the paras have earned more than 60 college credits, with some holding BA/BS degrees. In addition, PEEA funded classrooms must achieve a 4.5 or higher rating by the ECERS (Early Childhood Educational Rating System) which delineates curriculum and environmental requirements that are age/developmentally appropriate for preschool. Rahway's preschool classrooms will boast an ECERS level 7, the highest level. Moreover, two weeks of Professional Development was planned by the Supervisors and provided to the new teachers to bond as a team and to cover a wide range of topics from classic district orientation to hands-on teaching strategies.v

Principal of Madison Elementary School, Ms. Arina Robinson envisions the new full-day pre-k program as "an investment in our students." She adds, "Quality early childhood education is critical to the enhancement of social-emotional skills, language and math skills, and the physical development of young children." Also excited by the prospect of spending a full day in school just like 'the big kids' are the four-year-olds themselves, who had some pointedly insightful comments as well. Current Madison School preschooler Johann Bermudez exclaims, "I'm gonna get a happy stamp!" while Madison Roberts cheerfully offers, "I have shorts - I'm gonna wear them!"

Located at 1417 Main Street in the Arts District of downtown Rahway, NJ, the Cultured Expressions Sewing & Quilting Studio (the “CE Studio”) will offer gorgeous fabrics, embellishments and supplies for sewing, quilting and decorating with cultural flair...PLUS, a workshop space equipped with Janome sewing machines allows students to create quilts, handbags, home accents, gifts and more.

Workshops are geared to all skill levels, and Janome machines are also available for purchase.

Here you’ll find all of the creative inspiration offered through Cultured Expressions’ long-established online shop (CulturedExpressions.com) and various on-location events, plus some fun extras that are not to be missed! In addition, a boutique area will feature one-of-a-kind sewn items for those who prefer not to make it themselves.

The studio is just one block from Rahway train station, and right across the street from the covered parking deck. “So we’re within easy reach for all of our friends in NY, PA, CT, MD, DE, and beyond! We’re putting together special offers for groups, so bring your tribe and make a day of it – the downtown area also has great restaurants and shopping nearby,” explains Lisa Shepard Stewart, owner of the specialty company and its new studio space.

The studio launches with a Holiday Boutique from 12 noon to 6pm on Friday and Saturday, November 25-26, in advance of the December 1-3 Grand Opening weekend.

REMEMBERING MORE INDUSTRIES THAT ONCE CALLED RAHWAY HOME

Submitted by Al Shipley, City Historian and Rahway Library Research Consultant

PART TWO

Wheatena: The name Wheatena dates back to 1879 when the cereal product was one of a variety of products distributed through the Health Food Company of New York City. By 1902, the Wheatena brand branched off, formed its own company, and came to Rahway. The northeast corner property of Grand Avenue and Elizabeth Avenue, next to the railroad tracks, was chosen as the perfect location to build their four-story factory. Wheatena owned the property on all four corners and early photos show the company initially grew its own wheat on those fields. Through the 1920s, 30s, 40s, 50s, and into the 60s, the attractive, snow-white building with the tall yellow and blue cereal box water tower, remained one of the city's most recognized and respected businesses. The name "Rahway" was always included on all pieces of advertising and on every box of cereal that came out of the plant. The Wheatena Company left Rahway in the mid-60s. Their building was used as a warehouse for several years by a number of business concerns until it was vacated and thereafter fell into disrepair. The once handsome structure was finally razed in 2016.

The National Pneumatic plant was located on the corner of New Brunswick Avenue and East Hazelwood Avenue where the company manufactured equipment for opening and closing subway car doors pneumatically. The original parent company, Burdett and Rowntree, was founded in 1904 and was headquartered in Chicago. At that time their primary business was the manufacture of pneumatic door operators for elevators. Soon, however, they were contracted to supply door operators for the Chicago Elevated Railway and later received an order to supply doors for the elevated railway in Boston. With the transit industry becoming such a lucrative field, National Pneumatic was formed in 1910 for the purpose of serving the demands of the growing industry. By 1915 the company was receiving large orders from the New York subway systems and in early 1919 all manufacturing operations were moved to a new plant in Rahway. For the next thirty years, from 1919 to 1949 when the company moved to Boston, National Pneumatic was one of the largest and most modern factories in the city.

Purolater Products, Inc., founded in 1923, was a pioneer in the field of automotive filtration. The company came to Rahway in 1950 and moved into the factory building that had recently been vacated by National Pneumatic. Over the next 36 years, Purolater would become a leader in the manufacturing and marketing of oil, air, and fuel filtration products (that would provide "Pure Oil Later") for automotive, truck, off road vehicles, and industrial applications in the United States and Canada. Purolater left Rahway in the fall of 1986 and relocated in an industrial park in Edison.

The C.O. Tingley Company was organized in 1896 by Charles Tingley who had a small workshop on Ross Street near St. Georges Avenue. His primary business was the production of an assorted line of bicycle tire patches to accommodate the bicycle craze that was at its height. Later, as the automobile industry began to grow, Mr. Tingley retooled his operation and made tire repair materials for autos. In 1929, he sold the business to his partner and son-in-law, William McCollum. McCollum renamed the business the Tingley Reliance Rubber Company, enlarged the factory, and began the large scale production of all types of molded rubber products. By 1945, their biggest selling item was a seamless, one-piece, unlined rubber boot fashioned for men, women, and children that could be easily slipped on and off. In 1963, Tingley relocated to the Plainfield/Piscataway area. The Ross Street factory was raised a year later to make way for an apartment building.

Kant Rust Products, the original graphite lubricant, was a nationally known product when it was manufactured in Rahway between the mid-1920s to 1941. Originally located on St. Georges Avenue and West Hazelwood (in 1938 it moved to the corner of Race Street), Kant Rust was used to lubricate everything from carpet sweepers to lawn mowers, from sewing machines to gas stoves and furnaces, to squeaky hinges. Kant Rust was said to have been at the top of its product line and was known as being the "Standard" in graphite lubrication throughout the world. The factory building was razed shortly after the company left.

Virginia Barrel was located at the foot of West Lake Avenue and Broad Street and was housed in the building that had been the home of McNeill Cooperage from the mid-1920s to 1954. For the next ten years, Virginia Barrel continued the fine tradition of manufacturing quality slack barrels, kegs, and drums. The company was gone by 1965 after which the building served as home to various companies including Grief Brothers who were also dealers of drums and barrels. The factory building still stands, but is currently vacant.

Royal Manufacturing Company, located on East Grand Avenue, was one of Rahway's best known and most interesting industrial plants. Royal came to Rahway around 1910 and produced "wiping waste," a cloth product used to clean all types of machinery. The production was an interesting process. Raw materials, consisting of cotton and wool threads from cotton mills in the United States and wool from all over the world were brought to the factory. The materials were selected, sorted, and graded. Different grades of cloth "waste" were then made available to suit the particular needs of the customer. Royal closed in 1940. Within a year, the administration building and factory outbuildings were bought by Merck, Inc. to become part of their expanding complex. By the mid-1960s, all the buildings that were once part of Royal Manufacturing had been razed.

HAPPY B-DAY CARDS TO MEALS ON WHEELS

The Blue and Gold Club members at Franklin Elementary School in Rahway made birthday cards for the people who receive 'Meals on Wheels'. Meals on Wheels delivers hundreds of meals daily and the cards will be delivered with their food on their special day. The kids were delighted to know that their cards will put a smile on someone's face.

FRANKLIN SCHOOL WINS "LEADER IN ME" GRANT

Submitted by: Fran Gavin, Principal

Franklin School's administration and staff are happy and excited to announce our acceptance into Franklin Covey's "Leader in Me" network of schools. Leader.org, a grant-making charity "dedicated to sponsoring programs that build students' character and leadership skills in schools around the world", accepted our application and has agreed to provide over $44,000 in student materials, consultant costs for Professional Staff Development, coaching, travel and shipping costs toward program implementation.

What is "The Leader in Me?" From Franklin Covey Education:

The Leader in Me is a whole-school transformation model—developed in partnership with educators—that empowers students with the skills they need to thrive in the 21st century. Distinct in several ways, The Leader in Me is based on paradigms, content, and practices that, when implemented with excellence, transform how a school community approaches education and redefine what school greatness means for the 21st century. This new definition of school greatness is represented with three overlapping circles: leadership, culture, and academics.

The Leader in Me:

- Starts from a powerful premise—that every child possesses unique strengths and has the ability to be a leader—and therefore shapes the views of staff to value and develop the whole child.
- Integrates leadership development into existing school programs, curricula, and traditions in a seamless way.
- More than a program, The Leader in Me serves as a foundational operating system for the school, improving relationships, transforming culture, and motivating staff members and students.
- Impacts all stakeholders starting first with the staff of a school, then moving out to students, their families, and the community at large. This Inside-Out Approach is the key ingredient to successfully creating positive change.

As we begin this highly anticipated journey, starting this academic year with 4 full days of staff development and training, we invite the entire community to share our commitment to "Inspiring Greatness" and reinventing the culture of Franklin School. I will continue to share information and developments as we progress.

VETERANS' WISH LIST

Students from the Blue and Gold Club at Franklin Elementary School in Rahway made a special delivery to the Veterans Memorial Home in Menlo Park, NJ in the Spring. The club collected items from the veterans' wish list, such as new baseball hats, health items, and beauty aids. The veterans were greatly appreciative of the kind donation.

Franklin School's Blue and Gold Club is a school based club made up of students that volunteer their time throughout the year to help with different community service activities. The club is overseen by the school's nurse, Mrs. Barbara Maher and Ms. Kym Adams. They have done a great job all year. We're proud of these young men and women.

BROADWAY VERSION OF A CHRISTMAS CAROL COMING TO CDC THEATRE IN CRANFORD

Ebenezer Scrooge and his ghostly encounters will come to life at CDC Theatre beginning December 8. Written and scored by Broadway heavy hitters, Alan Menken (Disney's Beauty and the Beast, Disney's The Little Mermaid, Little Shop of Horrors) and Lynn Ahrens (Ragtime, Seussical, Once on This Island), A Christmas Carol is a spectacular adaptation of Charles Dickens' most well-known story; proving its staying power with a decade-long run at the Theatre at Madison Square Garden.

This family friendly show will be directed by Matty Price. "I chose a Christmas Carol because it has a wonderful message about change," said Price. "That change for the better is possible and it is never too late to change. I think it applies to all people in all walks of life and at any stage. Our cast represents this with the variety of ages we have onstage working together to create this show. I think telling this familiar tale in the musical theatre style makes it new and exciting and the story will feel right at home on the CDC stage!"

Ebenezer Scrooge is a prosperous curmudgeon who believes that personal wealth is far more valuable than the happiness and comfort of others. With an infuriated "Bah! Humbug!", Scrooge sums up his feelings about Christmas tidings and charitable giving, but he's forced to face his selfish ways when on Christmas Eve three ghosts lead him through his Past, Present and Future. Thanks to their guidance, Scrooge recognizes his faults and greets Christmas morning as a changed man and with a cheerful "Happy Christmas!"

The production boasts a talented cast of over 30 local performers and will run for 8 performances from December 8 through December 16. Details and ticket information can be found at cdctheatre.org.

AFTER SCHOOL, KIDS DISCOVER THEIR POTENTIAL AT THE Y

A new school year is filled with potential - a chance to start new routines and habits, build new friendships and discover new possibilities and interests. It's an exciting time for many kids, however at the end of the school day, 11.3 million kids head to homes where they are unsupervised from 3 to 6 p.m., according to Afterschool Alliance, a nonprofit public awareness organization. As children transition from summer to fall, The Gateway Family YMCA is offering programs to school-aged children throughout our community to keep youth active, busy and engaged during out-of-school time. Through a well-rounded approach to youth development, the Y's programs offer activities in a caring and safe environment during the critical hours after school. Whether through sports, mentorship, or academic support, the Y nurtures the potential of youth throughout the school year.

"One in five children do not have someone to care for them after school, an essential time to help increase children's success in school," said

Krystal R. Canady, CEO, The Gateway Family YMCA. "Afterschool at the Y is an opportunity for families to ensure their kids are receiving additional support, continued learning and a chance to participate in meaningful activities that can inspire children's motivations and abilities to succeed."

The Y is a leading nonprofit committed to nurturing the potential of every child and teen, supporting their social, emotional, cognitive and physical development from birth to career. The Gateway Family YMCA offers Before and After School programs in many elementary and middle schools in Elizabeth, Rahway and Union. In The Gateway Family YMCA's afterschool program youth receive homework help and can also explore Arts, Literacy, STEM and healthy activities. Financial assistance is available to those in need, to ensure every child and teen has the opportunity to learn and grow at the Y.

The Gateway Family YMCA employs Healthy Eating and Physical Activity (HEPA) standards in afterschool programs that help build a healthier future for our nation's children by encouraging healthy eating habits, limiting screen time and providing physical activity to keep every child healthy.

For more information about The Gateway Family YMCA's afterschool program, please visit www.tgfymca.org or contact the Elizabeth Branch 908-355-9622, Five Points Branch 908-688-6922 or Rahway Branch 732-388-0057.
