BENEFACTOR GIVES A BIG BOOST TO NJROTC FUNDRAISER

The Linden High School NJROTC carwash raised far more money in one week than the cadets and their leaders could have hoped – thanks to one generous family.

Maurice Faulk Sr., the father of Cadet Maurice Faulk Jr., pledged to match whatever the program raised with the fundraiser. The cadets took in $1,042 with their efforts at the Aug. 17 carwash at the high school thanks to hard work and a great community turnout. Mr. Faulk's generous gift brought the total to $2,084, far exceeding the goal of $1,000 set by Commander Boyd Decker.

"They need support, because the kids there do a phenomenal job," Faulk Sr. said. "They work hard, they study hard. And it's really helping my son in making good decisions, and it's a positive and I want to keep that going as much as possible, if I can. My wife and I are very supportive."

Decker thanked Faulk Sr. and all the students' parents for their continual support.

"A tremendous amount of the success of our program can be attributed to the support we receive from the parents of our cadets," Decker said. "The extremely generous donation we received from Mr. Faulk is an indication of the amazing dedication our parents have to our cadets and the Navy JROTC program."

Faulk said he and his wife, Kim, did not make the donation to get publicity. Rather, they see how much the program has helped Maurice Jr.

"They have just been phenomenal," Faulk Sr. said of Commander Decker and Master Sgt. Nicholas Gombocz. "They look at the qualities of each of the ROTC cadets and they just amplify them. So Maurice is good at problem-solving, working with groups, and they just took that ability to the next level."

Maurice Jr. is a junior at LHS who plans to enlist in the Marines after high school. Faulk Sr. was in the Navy from 1987 to 1995, retiring as a corpsman 2nd class. He says he has a close relationship with the Marines.

"Every ship that I was on, they were on, and we took them everywhere," he said.

Faulk Sr. says it was his son's idea for he and his wife to make the matching donation.

"He came to me and said, 'Would you mind ...,' because my thing is that if you work hard, your reward should be just as good," Faulk Sr. said.

At the same time, though, the size of the donation may have caught him a little off guard.

"I didn't think they were going to do that many cars, to be honest with you," Faulk Sr. said. "When I got there, I'm thinking they might do 40 cars, 30 cars, something like that. But when he said they did over 100 cars, I was impressed.

"Shocked! But impressed," he said with a laugh.

The Linden High School Navy Junior Reserve Officers Training Corps has about 450 students in the voluntary program. Money raised through fundraising goes toward programs such as their fall and spring Leadership Academies, field trips, an awards dinner, the drill team, and a formal Navy Ball.

All those events and their year-round in-school instruction go toward one goal:

"We just want to get them to the highest level they can get to and have them be better for joining the program," said Decker, who retired from the military in 2015 after 20 years as a Navy pilot. "We want them to leave here better than they came in."

"We call it a citizen development program – character education, leadership and service are kind of our marquee things. We're here to help the kids, make them better. We're a cadet-run program. The instructors are here to facilitate, but it's really these kids that make everything happen."

Linden High School, located at 121 W. St. Georges Ave., has more than 1,500 students at its two-building campus.

HALLOWEEN PARADE SET FOR SUN, OCT 29TH

This year, a wonderful autumn tradition will continue in Linden at the end of October.

On Sunday, October 29th at 2:00 p.m., marchers will step-off for the 66th edition of Linden's Halloween Parade. The parade will begin on South Wood Avenue near Route 1, and will proceed north toward City Hall and continue to Curtis Street. The total length of the march is approximately 1 mile.

According to the Parade Planning Committee, this year's parade will feature many new participants including municipal dignitaries, marching bands, decorated floats and performing groups. As in past years, most Linden schools are well represented with themed floats and children in costume. As is tradition, the end of the parade will feature a visit by Santa Claus to help officially kick-off the holiday season.

"We're thrilled with the response we've gotten from our municipality, our schools, and generous sponsors.

We were able to build the Line of March by approximately 30% over last year's parade" stated Carl Pereira, Linden Halloween Parade Committee President.

"We expect a large crowd of spectators this year, and they won't be disappointed" he said.

Many marching groups will stop and perform in front of grandstands erected at City Hall near Wood Avenue and Knopf Street, and that's where crowds are usually the largest. Carl added, "This year we are very fortunate to have received donations from Linden's business and corporate community. Their gracious generosity exemplifies the dedication and desire to keep a great Linden tradition alive and well, year after year."

The parade has always named a Grand Marshal, honoring an individual who has given of their time and generosity in helping to continue the legacy of the event. This year the committee has chosen Mrs. Carol Williams as Grand Marshal.

The Halloween Parade Planning Committee will continue to meet every Wednesday at 7:00 p.m. at the JTG Recreation Center on Helen Street. Volunteers are always welcome. If you would like to participate in any way or by marching as a group, individual or enter a decorated vehicle or float of any size, please call: 908-474-8639 or visit our website at www.linden-nj.org. For parade updates, please visit the committee on Facebook at 2017 Linden Halloween Parade.

SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED TO LOCAL STUDENTS

The Bayway Complex Community Advisory Panel (CAP) awarded scholarships to seven local students at a dinner hosted at the Phillips 66 Bayway Refinery. The students will receive $1,000 each for their studies in Process Technology or Engineering at a college or university this fall.

The scholarship winners are: Danny Goncalves - Linden High School; Jordan West - Rahway High School; Luzangela Martinez - Rahway High School; Javier U. Valdivieso Palacio - John E. Dwyer Technology Academy, Elizabeth; Daniela Perez - Thomas A. Edison Career and Technical Academy, Elizabeth; David

Ip - Staten Island Technical High School; Emily Chapman - St. Joseph Hill Academy, Staten Island.

Winners were selected based on their grades, leadership, school extra-curricular activities, community activities, and financial need. The scholarship awards were sponsored by the CAP member companies: Phillips 66 Bayway Refinery, Infineum USA L.P., Cogen Technologies Linden Venture, Eastman Chemical Company, Veolia North America, PSEG Linden Generating Station, and Linden VFT.

The Bayway CAP is a committee of community representatives from Linden, Rahway, Elizabeth, and Staten Island including neighbors, educators, retirees, public officials, emergency responders, and environmentalists who attend quarterly meetings that serve as a forum for dialogue between the community and company representatives.

LINDEN PD PROMOTES THREE OFFICERS

On Tuesday, September 5th, 2017, family and friends gathered in the Municipal Courtroom to celebrate as three of Linden's Finest were promoted. The promotions of Thomas Toth to the rank of Captain, Rick Bachmann to the rank of Lieutenant, and Matthew Damatta to the rank of Sergeant were unanimously approved by the City Council at the August council meeting.

The promotions were made to fill the vacancy left by Captain Michael Saake, who retired from the department on September 1st after 27 years of service. During the ceremony Mayor Derek Armstead focused on the progress in the Police Department. "Providing the necessary leadership and resources in order for our police to be most efficient are important to the safety of Linden residents and what I was elected to do," said the Mayor. "I am very confident in the direction of the Police Department."

Each of these Officers have already reported to their new assignments in the Patrol Division: Captain Toth as Commander of the Patrol Division, Lt. Bachmann as a Shift Commander, and Sgt. Damatta as a Field Supervisor.

"This is a very capable, very experienced group of Supervisors," said Police Chief Jonathan Parham. "Their individual skillsets are impressive, but collectively their leadership will drive this department forward and inspire the next generation of leaders."

SOEHL AND NJ JETS TO STAND UP TO BULLYING

In every case of bullying, there is a bully and a victim.

But there is also usually a bystander. A new program at Soehl Middle School, in conjunction with the New York Jets and Stomp Out Bullying, wants to turn the bystander into an "Upstander."

"We want the bystander not to just stand on the side, but speak up," said Elizabeth James, who works in crisis intervention at Soehl. "Don't get yourself in trouble, but say, 'Hey, that's not cool.'"

"Most of the time people laugh because they're uncomfortable. They're glad somebody's not picking on them. But it only takes that one person to say, 'That's not cool.' A lot of kids do stick up for each other, and we need to start highlighting those kids."

The Jets Upstander of the Week program recognizes and rewards these students. Throughout the football season, one student will be chosen each week to receive three tickets to a Jets home game, a T-shirt and a bumper sticker.

Soehl's first two Upstanders of the Week are eighth-grader Jessica Rengifo and seventh-grader Jimmie Jones.

James had praise for both.

"Ever since she's been here, she always volunteers, she's always speaking up," she said of Jessica. "When we had jersey day, I remember her saying, 'I'm a Jets fan, but I don't mind taking pictures with everybody else's team.' She didn't know I was doing this program; that's just who she is."

And Jimmie summed up the theme of the program: "I love that he said, from the kids' perspective, 'Bullying's just not nice,'" James said of Jimmie. "From the mouths of babes. How much simpler can you get and be true? And he said he wants to be the change he wants to see in the world. That's just him."

Only 16 students will be able to win the Jets tickets as Upstanders, but James wants to keep the spirit of the program going throughout the school year, possibly with other ticket giveaways or prizes. Students will be asked to write essays on bullying, and parents will be invited in for food and informal dialogues – called "chew-and-chats" – about bullying and cyberbullying.

It's all part of a larger effort to combat bullying every day.

"It's about loving the kids," James said. "If they can find someone who believes in them when they don't believe in themselves, they'll remember that."

SCHOLARSHIP GIVES LIFE TO CUSTODIAN'S DREAM OF BEING A TEACHER

By Gary Miller

When Linden High School social studies teacher Monica Goncalves met Jurah Peele, she quickly realized he was no run-of-the-mill custodian.

Goncalves is very particular about her classroom, but Peele was just as picky, making sure that the desks were lined up every day, that all the books were in place – and that the plants were watered.

"She's crazy about her plants," he said.

"Anytime I needed anything, he was always my go-to person," she said.

But it was when Goncalves saw Peele interacting with students that her respect for him jumped to another level. So much so that she asked for his help on one of her lessons.

"When discussing contemporary race issues, I invited Jurah into my classroom to talk to my students and share his experience as a young African-American male in Linden," said Goncalves, the 2017 Union County Teacher of the Year. "He immediately makes relationships with these students and I'm amazed. He belongs in front of the classroom."

So when Goncalves – as a finalist for New Jersey State Teacher of the Year – was given the opportunity at a conference this summer to nominate someone for a full scholarship to the University of Phoenix, there was one person who jumped to mind.

That light bulb turned into a lightning bolt when Peele found out on September 5 – two days shy of his 28th birthday – that he was one of 10 applicants chosen for the scholarship.

"A great birthday gift," Peele said.

The scholarship is given by the University of Phoenix in partnership with the National Network of State Teachers of the Year (NNSTOY) to top applicants who want to continue their education but may not have had the opportunity because of financial constraints. Applicants can be nominated only by state teachers of the year or finalists.

Peele plans to use the scholarship to major in history with the goal of becoming a history teacher and making an impact on students' lives.

"This means everything," Peele said. "I was shocked, my hands were shaking. I was just looking around, like, 'Is this real?'"

Peele's son – 3-year-old Jurah Jr. – is a key inspiration for his desire to continue his education and improve the lives of students.

"There's a chance that these kids could meet my kid in the future, and I want that to be a good encounter," he said. "If I have the power to make the future better, and change the present for these kids, who knows what could happen. I feel like I can really steer them the right way."

"Besides impacting the youth, I want to make my son proud."

Goncalves said Peele, who graduated LHS in 2008, is a positive role model for Linden's young African-American men.

"He does great things where he is right now, but can you imagine him in front of the classroom, where he can lead every single day for all these amazing students?" she said. "Just being able to share his experiences in Linden with Linden kids. That's absolutely the idea of what we need."

A key element of the Linden Public Schools' "Lead Your Legacy" theme this school year is that every staffer has the ability to make a difference in students' lives. Following that theme, Peele is proud of the relationships he has developed with students in his current role, and has been able to help students make good decisions.

"In one instance, there was a kid who stormed out of class and said to me, 'I can't do this school stuff,'" Peele said. "I pulled him aside and said, Goncalves nominated Peele for a full scholarship to the University of Phoenix through a partnership with the National Network of State Teachers of the Year. Peele found out he won on Sept. 5, two days shy of his 28th birthday.

"This is easy, you can do this." And he walked off. I met him later in the day in the cafeteria and he said, 'Thank you for that,' because my words really impacted him."

At the same time, Peele feels that going into the classroom would take his contribution to another level.

"I want more time to be more impactful on the kids," he said. "As a custodian, it's in passing. It's five-minute conversations. But as a teacher you're sitting down and really getting to know the situation of what someone's going through. I feel I can guide them in the right direction."

Goncalves said she and Peele, as well as Linden High School Vice Principal David Walker and social studies teacher Robert Mangel, were up late preparing essays for the scholarship's August 14 application deadline.

"The entirety of the Linden Public Schools community has his back," she said.

LINDEN POLICE LEAD THE WAY IN CRISIS INTERVENTION TRAINING

The Linden Police Department hosted its 5th annual Crisis Intervention Team (CIT) picnic at Memorial Park on August 26th. The event is designed to give Police Officers a chance to meet and interact with members of the community receiving mental health services. "When one of our neighbors are struggling, we want to help them," explained Det/Lt. Abdul Williams, who also serves as CIT Police Coordinator for Union County. "Establishing a relationship in casual settings like this builds trust and lowers anxiety so that we can minimize the force needed to resolve crisis situations."

The Union County CIT program began in 2011 with the purpose of improving collaboration between police and the mental health system. The program has been very successful, and classes are always filled to capacity. Linden has one of the largest teams in the county; over one third of Linden Police Officers on the road today have attended the 40-hour certification course, as well as a majority of Dispatchers and supervisors. For Police Chief Jonathan Parham, the training is invaluable.

"CIT training does more than teach police officers safer ways to handcuff someone, it teaches them to utilize empathy and patience when dealing with someone in crisis. Taking the extra time to gather information by speaking to family members, and using verbal tactics to calm the person in crisis has been proven to reduce the risk of injury to both the police officer and the person in crisis."

The Linden Police Department has been a leader in police response to mental illness. A number of Linden Police Officers and Dispatchers volunteer as trainers for classes in Union County and across the state, and aside from their annual picnic and Easter Egg Hunt, they routinely assist mental health partners with their events.

"The program is designed so that none of us are ever alone," said Lt. Williams. "This community is full of passionate volunteers who are truly committed to improving the services we provide."

SCHOOL 2 CELEBRATES FATHERS ON "DADS TAKE YOUR KIDS TO SCHOOL DAY"

As part of national Dads Take Your Child to School Day, School 2 in Linden held its first "Walk and Talk With Dad," event on Tuesday, Sept. 19. The event gave fathers a chance to play with their kids outside, before bringing them in for breakfast and dropping them off at class. And it gave the school the chance to thank them for all their work and to let them know they matter, too.

When Principal Atiya Perkins first thought of the event, she was expecting 30 or 40 fathers to come. A week before the event, she said 140 fathers had signed up. Afterward, she was "delighted" to reveal that over 300 fathers came to School 2 with their kids. "This event surpassed my expectations," said Perkins, who had worried about rain in the forecast. "When the sun came out, wow, talk about the sunshine today."

Fathers were given orange hats saying "School No. 2, Fathers Matter, Too." They played games and snapped photos outside on the playground, and were invited to trace their hands with their child's hand on large sheets of paper hung on the walls saying, "Daddy and Me." They picked up snacks on the way into the school and spent time eating in the cafeteria, before walking their kids to class. Dads then gathered in the school gymnasium for speeches of thanks and inspiration from Perkins, Mayor Derek Armstead, and Spencer Lester, the CFO and vice president of Children's Futures Inc., a non-profit based in Trenton. Lester is the father of School 2 physical education teacher Steven Strothers.

Fathers were also treated to an emotional rendition of "Wind Beneath My Wings" by School 2 paraprofessional Sardou Sainvil, who received a standing ovation from the dads.

Perkins said this won't be the last event aimed at involving dads, including a father-daughter dance and a father-son cook-off. "We're looking forward to more events with you all," she told the dads, "to create more memories. So know that this is just the beginning. This is going to be a legacy that you create each and every day."

JAZZY 1920'S WHODUNNIT THE WILD PARTY OPENS 99TH SEASON AT CDC THEATRE

In Andrew Lippa's The Wild Party, decadence and excess roar across the stage in this steamy prohibition tale based on Joseph Moncure March's 1928 narrative poem of the same name. This darkly brilliant show, featuring one of the most exciting, pulse-racing scores ever written, will open the 2017-2018 season at CDC Theatre in Cranford, NJ. This marks the 99th season at New Jersey's oldest continuously producing community theatre.

"The musical is like a Jazz Age take on Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream; a potent cocktail of an all-night party in late 1920s Manhattan," says director Sean Lough. Adapted from a book-length poem written in and about the Roaring Twenties, The Wild Party tells the story of one wild evening in the Manhattan apartment shared by Queenie and Burrs, a vaudeville dancer and a vaudeville clown. In a relationship marked by vicious behavior and recklessness, mirroring the times in which they live, they decide to throw a party to end all parties. As the guests arrive, we meet an assortment of people living on the edge. Queenie and Burrs set out to make each other jealous, but Queenie begins to fall in love with her conquest named Mr. Black. After a long night of decadence, Burrs' jealousy erupts and he comes to a violent end at Mr. Black's hand. In the stark light of a new day, Queenie moves out into a brighter world, although not necessarily a brighter future, leaving the passed-out revelers in her wake. An award-winning score by Andrew Lippa provides excitement and drive for this tale of passions out of control. Capturing the sound of a bygone era with a nod to the present one, he makes us realize that moral decadence is not only limited to our past.

The production will run from October 13 through October 28 at the theatre's 78 Winans Ave home. Additional information about the show and how to get tickets can be found by visiting www.cdctheatre.org.

NEW-LOOK SOEHL MIDDLE SCHOOL

Students at Soehl Middle School in Linden arrived for the 2017-18 school year to find a fresh new look throughout the school.

The school's hallways and classrooms got a fresh coat of paint, the gym locker rooms got new lockers, ceiling tiles, flooring and bathrooms, and the main entrance got new welcome mats with the Linden Public Schools logo. The school also got a new parking lot on Elm Street with more than 30 spaces for faculty and staff.

Principal Richard Molinaro says the facelift enhances the school's learning environment for students. "Anybody that comes into our school, they're going to find it's very welcoming and we're ready for a fresh new start to the 2017-2018 school year." Molinaro says he is also looking forward to having the auditorium remodeled next summer.

For a closer look at the school's new look, a video tour with Principal Molinaro can be seen on Youtube with the title "Soehl Facelift" at the following link: https://youtu.be/jN1o2MXe_Ug

The nickname "Tigers" and colors black and orange have been associated with Linden High School for generations. But now those familiar identifiers will be taking on a greater role throughout the Linden Public Schools.
