WHITE-OUT AGAINST BULLYING

(above) State Sen. Tom Kean, standing second left, R-Morris, Somerset and Union, who is also the N.J. Senate Minority Leader, and Somerset County Sheriff's Department Capt. Tim Pino, were guest speakers at the White-Out Against Bullying Ceremony before the Homecoming Game versus Phillipsburg High School, Friday, Oct. 6, in Tozier Stadium. They were welcomed to the field by: WHRHS Superintendent Elizabeth Jewett; Principal George Alexis; Social Studies Teachers and White-Out against Bullying Advisors Mary Sok, and Jamie Lott-Jones; and a dozen members of the student Diversity Club, organizer of the White-Out against Bullying Initiative. Front row, from left, are: Students Melissa Hertzberg, Alanna Margulies, Helen Yang, and Emily Krouk; Felix Cotter, son of Mary Sok; and students Clara Citarella, Rachel Krouk, Jake Jones, Koa Lorimor, and Stella DeMizio; and back row, from left: Capt. Pino; Sen. Kean; Superintendent Jewett; Ronan Cotter, being held by his mom, Sok; students Kevin Sun and Enzo Ruta; Lott-Jones; Zachary Nemcek; and Principal Alexis.

Homecoming Night was also "White-Out against Bullying" Night, sponsored by the students' Diversity Club. Many students, parents and staff wore white in support of an ongoing initiative at the school to raise awareness and support for the anti-bullying movement at WHRHS and in the community.

State Sen. Tom Kean Jr., as well as Somerset County Sheriff Capt. Tim Pino, were special guests. They also have been present at several White Out assemblies at the school over the years.

During his remarks to attendees, Sen. Kean acknowledged that only six days earlier in Las Vegas, Nev., the week, "began with such sorrow," and in contrast, "tonight we offer hope – hope to others that Watchung Hills stands against bullying and is ready to extend a hand to those being bullied."

Kean continued, "In a week that began with such chaos, tonight we all stand together on this field – together, united, firm in our mission – as a team, as a school, and as a community against bullying."

The WHRHS White Out initiative has been credited with having coined a new word, "Upstander," a person who stands up against bullying. Kean made reference to that in his remarks.

"Let us look around tonight," Kean said, "and remember this image and let it remind us that our commitment to each other and to the pledge we have taken to always stand up to hate, injustice and prejudice. Do your part to make this world a better, safer, and happier place for all of us."

In closing, Kean said, "Now, Go Warriors!"

WHRHS HOMECOMING COURT

Seniors Matthew Canary and Caitlyn Park were named the 2017 King and Queen of the Homecoming Court at the Watchung Hills Regional High School (WHRHS) Homecoming Game, Friday, Oct. 6, at the Warriors' Tozier Football Stadium.

In addition to Homecoming King Canary and Queen Park, also named to the Homecoming Court are: Vamsi Desu, Andrew Malfetti, Sahil Patel, and Ryan Santos as well as Katelyn Carroll, Nina Goliyad, Emma Sonta, and Jen Walpow.

Kelly explained the process by which the King and Queen were selected.

"Upon returning to Watchung Hills this September," Kelly said, "the current Senior class nominated their peers to comprise our 2017 Homecoming Court. The students were told to nominate a male and female student who embodies our Watchung Hills values and traditions.

"The top five nominees for King and Queen were tallied. Thereafter, the entire student body was able to vote on the King and Queen. We accepted and tallied votes up until the end of the first quarter of the game. Prior to the game the court and their families were welcomed with a Homecoming Reception sponsored by our WHRHS All School Council."

In the game, the Warriors battled Phillipsburg High School Stateliners, but in the end WHRHS lost to perennial state football powerhouse, 35-0.

Warrior senior quarterback Connor James finished with 9 of 21 for 149 yards passing and ran the ball another 10 times for 47 yards. Among the highlights, senior receiver Mike Asante had three catches for 61 yards. Senior running back had two receptions for 42 yards. Senior tight end Jeff Poggia had three catches for 37 yards.

MILA'S DEBUT RELOCATES FROM GREEN BROOK TO WARREN

The 15-year-old business, which incorporates part of her name combined with musical notes, is Mi La's Debut School of Music.

"I wanted to select a name for my school that emphasizes my true love of music," she said.

"Music is close to my heart." It must be. She named her daughter "Dorela".

Ms. Kozlova brings a wealth of music knowledge and experience to the school. Kozlova, a graduate in violin, piano and conducting from the Kishinev Conservatory in Russia, taught for 15 years there. She said her love of music and teaching motivated her to move to the United States with the dream of opening her own music school.

The school now occupies 3,000 square feet and offers lessons in piano, voice, violin, viola, cello, flute, clarinet, saxophone, percussion, guitar, mandolin and music theory. All lessons are offered on a one-on-one basis.

The advantage for a personalized lesson is that the student has the teacher's undivided attention and the teacher can work on music intonation and their progress. It's more than just playing the wonderful music," she added.

Within the school, there are 14 classrooms and a beautiful recital hall. A grand piano beckons for students to show off their talent and progress.

Mi La's Debut invites students from age 4 through adult. She said music education not only instills an appreciation of the arts and music but facilitates concentration, self-discipline and intelligence.

"I think children who play an instrument experience many advantages," Kozlova added. "They not only learn to love music, they learn that hard work pays off."

WRITE THE NEXT GREAT AMERICAN NOVEL

Most Thursdays between 10:30 a.m. - 12:30 p.m., you can find the members of The Watchung Writers Group gathering at SCLSNJ's Watchung Library branch. The Watchung Writers Group was started in 2001 by novelist Gordon McLenithan with the objective of creating a supportive network of aspiring authors. The group is open to writers at all levels of experience from beginners to published authors and attracts members from surrounding towns.

“I embrace the opportunity to spread the word that life-changing work is happening in our Watchung Writers Group. We're all serious about our writing. Being part of this group makes me a better writer,” said member Vivian Fransen.

The group is always looking for additional adult members that are striving to improve their writing skills while also sharing literary and personal experiences during the two-hour working sessions.

Multiple SCLSNJ branches endeavor to assist local authors in penning their first (or second) novel. Learn more or register to attend the next session at: sclsnj.libnet.info
