A GRATEFUL WHRHS ALUMNA RECEIVES 'UPSTANDER' AWARD

Submitted by Denis Kelly

As Engy Gadmaula, Watchung Hills Regional High School (WHRHS) Class of 2014, embarks on her last semester of undergraduate studies at Drew University, Madison, she does so remembering her very first class on her very first day as a WHRHS Warrior in September 2010.

She was born, and spent her first 10 years living in Cairo, Egypt, before she moved in 2003, just two years after 9/11, to Watchung with her mom, dad, and sister.

"I grew up being called a terrorist," she told the audience at the "Facing History and Ourselves" annual New York Benefit Dinner, Thursday, Oct. 19, 2017 at Pier 60 at Chelsea Piers, New York City.

Between 750 and 800 people attended the dinner. Engy Gadmaula was one of three key speakers at the event, and one of four people presented with Upstander Awards. Others receiving Upstander Awards were: Jennifer and Peter Buffett and the NoVo Foundation; and actress, playwright and activist Anna Deavere Smith.

It is the same annual benefit dinner that in 2014 recognized the work of WHRHS Social Studies Teachers Jamie Lott-Jones and Mary Sok, and WHRHS students Engy Gadmaula, Catherine Higgins and Monica Mahal, for creating and implementing the WHRHS "White-Out to Erase Bullying" campaign. That campaign brought together some 13 New Jersey school districts and raised awareness of bullying and upstander behavior. Lott-Jones and Sok accompanied Gadmaula to the banquet along with members of her family.

Rising out of that effort, WHRHS students helped to literally coin a new word in the Oxford English Dictionary (OED) to describe a new concept. It is "Upstander," someone who is different from being merely a "bystander," someone who, in effect, "faces history and ourselves," and tries to do something about it.

In 2014, the WHRHS teachers and students received recognition at the Facing History and Ourselves Benefit Dinner: They were recognized as "Upstanders." Last Fall, Engy Gadmaula received her second Upstander recognition, for everything she has done since then. She was asked to be one of the keynote speakers at the 2017 Facing History and Ourselves Benefit Dinner.

She might say, it was everything that has happened in her life, both before and after that fateful day in September 2010, when she entered her "very first class on her very first day as a WHRHS Warrior."

Engy shared the poem with the Facing History and Ourselves Annual Dinner audience, reading:

"First they came for the Socialists, but I was not a Socialist and I did not speak out/ Then they came for the trade unionists, but I was not a trade unionist, so I did not speak out/ Then they came for the Jews, but I was not a Jew, so I did not speak out/ Then they came for me, and there was no one left to speak for me."

Continuing, she shared: "For me, this poem is a daily reminder that we all have the power to be 'perpetrators, bystanders or upstanders.' Facing History has taught me that it is our decision what role we take."

She is an Upstander.

WATCHUNG HILLS REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL 2017 MIDDLE SCHOOL CONCERT

As 8th grade students in Warren Township, Long Hill Township, Watchung, and Green Brook Township settle into the last half-year of their middle school career, they do so having received the gift, three days before Christmas, of being able to feel "Warrior Pride" as the future Watchung Hills Regional High School (WHRHS) Class of 2022.

The soon-to-be First Year high school students, were the guests of honor at the 2017 Middle School Choral & Instrumental Concert, Friday, December 22, 2017, at the WHRHS Performing Arts Center (PAC). They were welcomed by the Warrior Music Department, whose participants performed selections and highlights from the Winter Instrumental and Choral concerts that entertained audiences on December 7 and 14, 2017, respectively.

Likewise a small number of WHRHS Dance students and members of the Marching Band Color Guard provided choreography for some of the selections at the concert. Several behind-the-scenes student production crew volunteers helped make the concert a smooth performance.

Among the choral music highlights at the Middle School Concert was a reprise of the Choral Concert's crowd-pleaser, "Bohemian Rhapsody," by Queen. The anthem had figured prominently in the movie, Wayne's World," and the theme of the concert was "Music in the Movies." The "Bohemian Rhapsody" arrangement at the concert appropriately included student musicians on piano, electric lead guitar and bass guitar, and a drum kit.

Likewise, among the highlights from the Instrumental Concert performed at the Middle School Concert was the Wind Ensemble's rendition of perennial favorite, "A Christmas Festival," by Leroy Anderson." During a break in the main performance space behind the curtain on stage, during which production crews rearranged chairs and music stands to support different set-ups for the various instrumental bands, a smaller musical group of student musicians, The Sax Quartet, performed several jazzy numbers. Among them was, appropriately, "Take Five," Dave Brubeck's best-known composition.

As future Warriors filed out of the auditorium to return to their middle schools and then to their holiday week off, current Music Department students lined their way out, giving them greetings from WHRHS. Many encouraged the Class of 2022 to consider joining them next year as singers, instrumentalists, dancers, Marching Band and Color Guard members, and even production crew volunteers.
