90TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION FOR BOY SCOUT TROOP 80

Submitted by Tom Usinowicz

Cranford Boy Scout Troop 80 celebrated its 90th anniversary at Hanson Park on June 9, 2018. Over 250 current scouts, alumni and family members were in attendance to commemorate this significant event.

Troop 80 has been sponsored by the First Presbyterian Church of Cranford since the unit's inception in 1928. Over these last nine decades, countless young boys have gone through its Scouting program as they have journeyed toward manhood and a life living the 12 points of the Scout Law. Scouts earn merit badges during meetings, camping activities, high adventure trips and independent achievements, all while having a fun experience as they try to obtain the prestigious rank of Eagle Scout.

The day's events started with a flag ceremony led by Cranford VFW Post #335's color guard, followed by an invocation and comments from Reverend Chris Kile, and opening remarks from Troop 80 Committee Chair Bob Scheurer. In addition, both Betty Jane Kowalski from the Union County Board of Freeholders and Cranford Mayor Tom Hannen presented honorary proclamations to the unit, praising its long history and contributions to the community, with the Office of State Senator Tom Kean providing a proclamation as well.

Festivities included a barbeque, music, canoeing and "Gaga pit", a popular game at summer Scout camp. In addition, organizers, led by Katy Bursack, Donna Marino, Bob Scheurer and Tom Usinowicz, coordinated a commemorative program, specially designed tee-shirts and an alumni tent complete with photographs and memorabilia showcasing the last 90 years.

Troop 80 was founded in 1928 and currently has over 60 boys involved in a program that advocates personal growth, character-building and a love for outdoor life as well as offering leadership and athletic activities. Scouts go on weekend camping trips, attend summer camps, participate in high adventure activities such as canoe treks and backcountry backpacking and seek to attain a wide universe of merit badges. Its sponsoring organization, The First Presbyterian Church of Cranford, has been a consistent and generous supporter of the unit. For info contact: 90thanniversarytroop80@gmail.com

SUNNY ACRES OFFICIALLY A CRANFORD LOCAL HISTORIC DISTRICT

Submitted by Maureen Strazdon

At the Cranford Township Committee Meeting held on August 14, 2018 the Committee adopted an ordinance making Sunny Acres the first Cranford Local Historic District.

Carole Esposito of the Sunny Acres Civic and Improvement Association stated “we’ve worked a long time to get Sunny Acres recognized as a Historic District and we are more than delighted that the recognition is finally here.”

The designation is based on Sunny Acres being a historically significant example of a planned residential suburban development, especially since it was the first such housing development that was entirely planned and executed by Sears Roebuck Modern Homes Division.

“These were not the usual Sears “kit” homes,” adds Carole, “but rather a new concept in development that Sears started here and later used across the country.”

Maureen Strazdon, Chair of the Cranford Historic Preservation Advisory Board (HPAB), said “the designation celebrates the architectural significance of Sunny Acres, its sense of community, and what Sunny Acres meant to the economic and social development of Cranford. It demonstrates that preservation should not focus only on great landmarks but also on modest sites of cultural significance.” HPAB sponsored the ordinance and worked with Sunny Acres on the process for designation.

Loretta Smith, a member of HPAB and the Sunny Acres Civic and Improvement Association, and who has been a resident of Sunny Acres for over 51 years, noted that a proposal, and a detailed inventory of all 172 houses that had been built between 1940 and 1943, had been provided to the Township Committee, along with a report on the open meeting that had been held in May for public comment. All 172 homes are part of the District, and 134 (about 78%) are considered contributing from a preservation standpoint, meaning their original designs are still recognizable.

A Local Historic District designation does not prevent an owner from making any changes to a property, nor does it require the owner to restore the property. Any modifications are governed by the Zoning regulations that cover all buildings in Cranford. With the designation, HPAB will work on style guidelines to help anyone who wants to make changes while retaining the character of their house.

From a local perspective, Sunny Acres is significant in that it was the largest planned development of single-family homes in Cranford the first half of the 20th century, and it is the first development in Cranford that made 30-year mortgages available to potential home owners, making home ownership an option for working and middle class families.

CRANFORD POLICE ISSUE NEW SET OF TRADING CARDS

Submitted by Detective Lieutenant
Edward R. Davenport

Trading cards featuring photos and biographies of 52 Cranford Police Department officers, including Chief Ryan Greco, were unveiled in July and are now in the hands of those officers. They will be distributed by officers as a way to open up communications with the public.

"These trading cards are going to provide us with a valuable tool to connect with children and show the human-side of policing; as well as an aid to get to know your local police department," Chief Greco said.

Cranford officers were last featured on similar trading cards in 2000 and the project was a huge success. Several of our veteran officers who were featured in the first set are also in this year's cards.

In addition to active police officers, this year's trading card set will also feature some of the Cranford Police Department's civilian staff. Chief Greco added, "The cost of the cards was funded by sponsorship money from local residents and businesses."

Each officer was given 800 trading cards to share with the children in the community. The timing of this year's trading cards works well since the celebration of National Night Out was held on August 7th. However, the Cranford

Police Department is adding some incentive to collect the trading cards. Any child who collects 10 different trading cards will be given one entry into a prize drawing to be held later this year. Those children collecting 20 trading cards will be given two entries. Entries for the drawing can be simply obtained by showing your trading card collection to the Cranford Police Department Communications Center in the Township's Municipal Building. The winners of the prize will not need to be present at the time of the drawing.

The project was spearheaded by the Cranford Police Department Community Policing Unit and is part of a series of initiatives aimed at encouraging interactions with our local youth and presenting the officers as role models.

For the safety of our children, we ask parents to not have their children approach a police officer while they are conducting a motor vehicle stop or while they are directing traffic.

PETER KLEIN GIVEN UNITY AWARD FOR ACHIEVEMENT BY MILITARY/VETERAN

Fifteen individuals and seven organizations recently received the Union County Human Relations Commission's prestigious Unity Award for Achievement, an honor given to role models who dedicate their time and efforts to activities and programs that raise and honor the human spirit.

The awards were handed out during a special presentation held at the Kean University's STEM Building in Union Township on May 7, 2018. The 2018 awards marked the 17th year in which the Commission has named honorees.

Cranford resident Peter Klein, along with Fanwood residents Joseph Nagy and Edward Miller received the Unity Award for Achievement by Military/Veteran. They were recognized for "incredible life-altering service to our country, and for carrying all of us on your shoulders for a lifetime."

Below is preprinted from the event's program.

PETER KLEIN,

WWII UNITED STATES ARMY VETERAN

Cranford resident Peter Klein was born in 1922 in Alsace-Lorraine, France, in an area that shares a border with Germany. If you were born before the Franco-Prussian War, you became German. After WWII you were French again. He sailed to America as a one-year-old and settled with his family in Elizabeth.

He attended Holy Rosary School, and graduated in 1940 from Thomas Jefferson High School. As a child, he worked in machine shops, including Singers in Elizabeth. He later became a mason, laying brick with his father and uncles, until he joined what eventually became Saxon Construction Company. He became the chief estimator purchasing agent, a position he held for 38 years until his retirement at age 75.

Peter was drafted into the U.S. Army in early 1943 as the war was raging in Europe, while he was looking for a full-time job. He wanted to be a pilot, but was denied because of his lack of citizenship at the time, owing to a 1920 law mandating a person had to be 21 years old to apply for citizenship. "That was the bombshell,"

Peter has said. Instead, he was assigned as an infantryman and combat medic. It was not something he chose. Because he had some command of the German language, the Army also used him as a translator.

Determined to be a citizen, Peter proudly became a naturalized US citizen in November 1943 while serving his adoptive country.

He sailed across the ocean to Scotland, and then on to England, before heading to France.

Peter saw some of the worst of the worst of the war. Within seven months, he was tending to wounded and dying soldiers on Omaha Beach at Normandy during the D-Day invasion.

Peter fought with the Fifth Corps at Omaha Beach, Normandy, France, in Belgium and Luxembourg, at the Battle of the Bulge, and toward the end of the war in the slaughterhouse Battle of Hurtgen Forest in Germany. Peter said it was a nightmare that is hard to talk about, especially having been a medic, and he always speaks of and remembers the fellows who never came back.

He was discharged in late November 1945. After the war, Peter married his late wife Theresa, and eventually moved to Cranford, where they raised their two sons, Peter J. and Michael. After retirement, the couple did a lot of traveling and really enjoyed themselves.

Peter is a proud member of the Cranford VFW Post 335. They selected him to serve as the Grand Marshall of Cranford's 2017 Memorial Day parade.

We truly salute our veterans, for their service to our country and particularly for carrying us on our shoulders for their lifetimes.

Each has lived through many horrors first-hand, and have carried them with them for over three-quarters of a century.

Perhaps the most fitting way to close our salute is to borrow from Peter Klein's public remarks at last year's Cranford Memorial Day Parade, borrowed from former First Lady Eleanor Roosevelt. These words are carved in granite at the Pearl Harbor Memorial Site:

Dear Lord,

Lest I continue My complacent way,
Help me to remember Somehow out there
A man died for me today.
As long as there be war,
I then must Ask and answer
Am I worth dying for?

Gentlemen, we truly salute you, we thank you, and we all promise to try to be worthy.

ENSIGN EUGENE G. MCGARRY, U.S. NAVAL AVIATOR AND CRANFORD 86 HERO

By Stu Rosenthal with Don Sweeney and Lt. Col. Steve Glazer (USA, Ret.)

The snowiest Cranford winter in memory melted into tears for young Jacquelin (Gearrick) Ellis in frigid January of 1945. Eleven-year-old Jacky arrived home from school for lunch and entered the house, perhaps still brisk because of the coal shortage. Jacky was startled, her mom inconsolable. Elizabeth McGarry Gearrick was just informed that son Gene was missing at sea. Just weeks earlier, Jacky ran down the driveway excited to see half-brother Gene, home on a limited pass before Christmas. They shared mom's homemade pies and ice-skated on the nearby frozen river, but it was all too brief. By May, when winter was long forgotten and Europe was liberated, another chill descended upon Cranford. Mrs. Gearrick was informed that twenty-two-year-old Gene would never return home.

Similar stories of Cranford families devastated by lost service members were too often recounted during the war. For Mrs. Gearrick and her family, the episode was nearly repeated that year when her oldest son Walt was twice wounded while serving in the South Pacific. These narratives were recently shared with us by Jacky, now eighty-five years old, who still resides in Cranford only a few blocks from her childhood home. She also led us to her younger brother Warren, now eighty-one years old, and retired in North Carolina. Warren recalled a time as a young boy when he and Gene would lay back in a local hay field, gaze overhead and fantasize about flying. Remarkably, Warren then spent his career as a pilot with Eastern Air Lines (since defunct), assured a "guardian angel" escorted him on every flight.

Eugene George McGarry was born Aug. 18, 1922, to Walter and Elizabeth McGarry in Chicago, IL. Following the death of Walter Sr. from pneumonia when Eugene was very young, Elizabeth remarried and eventually settled in Cranford with older son Walter Jr. ('Walt') and Eugene ('Gene'). Jacquelin ('Jacky') was born a few years later, followed by Warren.

As a boy, Gene attended Roosevelt Elementary School and received communion at St. Michael Church. An unbounded curiosity fed Gene's varied interests, which included scouting, flowers, books, the school newspaper and model boats and planes. He was voted into the National Honor Society at Cranford High, where he had joined the science and aviation clubs, and graduated in 1939 when only sixteen. He attended Union Junior College followed by Cooper Union College of Engineering. Gene also spent time in Oregon on environmental projects with the Depression-era Civilian Conservation Corps. Before enlisting in the US Naval Reserve in Oct. 1942, Gene was working in nearby Kearny in the engineering department of Western Electric, which was supplying half of all military radar electronics.

Gene dreamed of flying and had applied to the Navy's highly competitive aviation training program. He had the fortitude, having spent part of his early childhood in a Newark orphanage. He also had the intelligence 'bug,' as joked recently by his family, and may have skipped a grade in school. But Gene still needed to prove to the Navy he had the 'right stuff.' He appeared before a selection board for intensive psychological and medical examinations in Dec. 1942. Gene successfully completed a battery of tests, met the qualifications and was sworn in as a cadet in the Navy's V-5 program, an aviation and officer training program.

Cadet McGarry arrived at the Navy's Pre-Flight School at Chapel Hill on the campus of the University of North Carolina in March 1943. This demanding three-month screening program involved intensive physical training, athletics and indoctrination in basic military and naval disciplines. Future President George H.W. Bush had just completed the same pre-flight training, an experience he would later say "shaped his life." Led by expert instructors and demanding coaches, many cadets failed the rigorous program and would serve elsewhere in the Navy in a non-flying enlisted job.

After passing pre-flight training, Gene arrived for Primary Flight School at Naval Air Station (NAS) Pensacola, FL. He was introduced to flight, acrobatics and night flying. In addition to classroom instruction, Gene learned how to fly with instruments and as part of a formation. Many classmates failed the training but Gene progressed to intermediate flight training. By fall 1943, Gene was flying mostly with instruments or 'blind flying.' He learned how to recover from an engine stall, a flipped plane and a descending spin. As the pool of qualified cadets narrowed further, Gene continued to advanced flight school where he learned dive-bombing runs, fighter approaches, live firing and underwater egress. By March 1944, with over 500 total flight hours, McGarry had earned the coveted 'Wings of Gold' worn by naval aviators and was commissioned an ensign in the US Naval Reserve. Those with top gunnery skills also qualified for subsequent fighter training. This select group included Gene.

Conceived before the US entered the war, the Grumman F6F 'Hellcat' was developed in Bethpage, Long Island as a carrier-based fighter with greater speed, armament and firepower than its predecessor. The single-seat, single-engine Hellcat vastly improved contests against the Japanese A6M 'Zero,' the most common enemy aircraft encountered by US Navy fighter pilots. By the end of the war, Hellcat pilots were credited with 5155 overall kills compared to just 270 losses, an unparalleled 19:1 win-to-loss ratio.

March 1944, Ensign McGarry began operational training at NAS Atlantic City. Not too far from home, McGarry had arrived at the newest premier training facility for naval fighter pilots. He was taught advanced gunnery, combat tactics and fighter navigation. Ensign McGarry learned how to catapult and land on aircraft carriers, dodge enemy aircraft and initiate a dogfight. The Cranford kid who adored the Iris flower had transformed into a genuine, perhaps cocky fighter pilot.

Gene was known to visit the Cranford skies unannounced. According to Jacky and Warren, he would buzz low or strafe over their house at 408 Manor Ave. in a Corsair airplane, but discontinued once a neighbor complained to police. The summer heat swelled in 1944 and Gene may have been itching for an even greater challenge. He was accepted for specialized 'night fighter' training and reported on Aug. 8, 1944 to Charlestown Naval Auxiliary Air Field near Quonset Point, RI.

The US fleet faced a daunting task early in the war -- how to counter Japanese air attacks. Ships were particularly vulnerable at night, often unable to mount a defense or respond with anti-aircraft gunfire unless the enemy could be heard or visibly sighted. The British were having early success with new radar technology for tracking incoming warplanes, which provided early warning and time to launch a counterattack. Now, the US Navy sought to develop an airborne version of radar, intended for bombing, ship detection and air superiority. The Navy believed radar could be affixed to fighter planes to hunt enemy aircraft from miles away, under the veil of the night sky.

Ensign McGarry's new training unit was conceived from a top-secret program begun early in the war to develop a night fighter capability with tactics that could protect US ships from enemy attack. Working with top engineers from industry and MIT scientists, the Navy ordered Hellcats modified with radar and enhanced instruments so it could fly missions around the clock. By the end of the war, night fighter Hellcats were credited with protecting carriers from nighttime enemy attacks and suppressing lethal Kamikaze attacks.

Night fighting required novel and distinct skills, even among top naval aviators. A pilot needed to balance conventional daytime fighting and making visual contact with the enemy, against nighttime fighting and relying solely on radar and cockpit instruments. In his Hellcat, Gene would plunge from the clouds like a nocturnal bat or zoom forward only feet above the breaking waves. On moonless nights, he practiced how to detect, intercept and destroy enemy aircraft. In preparation for combat, Gene would render split-second decisions soaring above the open seas at speeds near 400 mph.

Ensign McGarry remained at Charlestown through Dec. 1944. After a brief visit home, he left San Diego aboard the aircraft carrier USS Bennington on New Year's Day 1945. One week later, he arrived at Pearl Harbor, greeted by an armada of US carriers and battleships. With nearly 300 flying hours under his belt in the Hellcat, Ensign McGarry arrived at the 'finishing school' for night fighter training in the Pacific -- NAS Barbers Point, HI. Near the end of his first week, he wrote home to his mom and family. It was his last letter.

On January 12, 1945, following two years of intensive naval training, Ensign Eugene G. McGarry flew for the final time. He was piloting an F6F-5N Hellcat practicing night strafing maneuvers at sea with other pilots from his squadron. According to the Navy accident report, the night was "exceptionally dark" and Ensign McGarry was in a steep dive. His wingman believed he never pulled out or maneuvered the plane horizontally before it crashed into the sea. McGarry and his aircraft were never recovered.

When word circulated in Cranford about the loss of Gene, Mrs. Leonora Sjursen called on his family to offer comfort and support. Mrs. Sjursen, also a Gold Star Mother, had lost her son Paul just 11 months earlier. (A prior Cranford 86 article featured Corporal Paul Sjursen.) A mass was offered at St. Michael Church in May 1945 and repeated annually by Mrs. Gearrick. Ensign Eugene G. McGarry is forever memorialized on the Tablets of the Missing at the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific in Honolulu, Hawaii.

Brother Walt survived his battle wounds, returned to Cranford, married and named his son after Eugene. Jacky remained in Cranford and at a recent Memorial Day ceremony, thanked the Boy Scout who carried the Blue Star Flag in memory of Gene.

We salute Ensign Eugene George McGarry, a great American fighter pilot and one of our Cranford 86 Hometown Heroes. Please visit us at Cranford86.org for additional pictures on the Eugene McGarry story and other stories of the Cranford 86.

"I felt a personal connection to Eugene McGarry's story, having grown up on Long Island where the Hellcats were manufactured. My first assignment in the U.S. Air Force was to help manage and deliver the E-8C Joint STARS, a ground surveillance and battle management aircraft also developed by Grumman with innovative radar technology. Having recently joined the Cranford 86 project, I asked to take the lead on this story and thank Don and Steve for their assistance." - Stu Rosenthal (above) While training in Atlantic City, Gene McGarry was known to make periodic strafe passes over his Cranford home at 408 Manor Ave. He would sometimes wave his wings as he passed from his exceptionally loud Corsair 4FU fighter. The visits ended when neighbors complained to Cranford Police.

Pre-flight training at University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill put cadets through a 3 month program that would qualify men for primary flight school. Several top American Universities were used in this manner. The all-in mentality of our nation joined industry, education and personal sacrifice for the common goal of victory.

(above) The Naval golden wings proudly worn by Eugene McGarry after 2 long years of grueling training. He never wore them in battle, dying in a training exercise off Hawaii weeks before he likely would have entered combat in the So. Pacific.

SAMARITAN SANDWICH-MAKING EVENT FOR FAMILIES

Submitted by Sue Caruso-Green

Join local families as we help feed other families in need. We are making sandwiches for St. Joseph's Social Services Center in Elizabeth. We'll be gathering at 11:30 a.m. on Sunday, September 16, 2018 in the Education Building of the Cranford United Methodist Church, 201 Lincoln Ave. in Cranford.

Bring your children and grandchildren. This is a great project to do with children to help them to understand that hunger and poverty exists. The need is great. Parents with children, the unemployed and the elderly all wait in the heat for the food to be distributed and the line starts to form early in the morning.

We will have some bread, cold cuts and sandwich baggies available, but please bring some as well. Some suggestions for sandwiches: ham and cheese, turkey, chicken, roast beef, peanut butter and jelly, etc.

Girl Scouts, Brownies, Boy Scouts and Cubs - all are welcome! Many hands make light work as we share our blessings with others.

Can't make it that day? Send us your email address and we'll let you know about our next event on November 18.

Questions? Send an email to Sue Caruso-Green scgreen@aol.com or call her at 908-272-1209.

Thank you for caring for others in need.

CALVARY NURSERY SCHOOL & CHILD CARE CELEBRATES 25TH YEAR WITH 4-STAR RATING FROM STATE-ADMINISTERED GROW NJ KIDS

Calvary Nursery School & Child Care (CNSCC), has received a 4-star rating from the state's Grow NJ Kids assessment program. CNSCC is one of only three early childhood centers in Union County to receive the 4-star distinction, and only 38 have been issued in total in New Jersey. Currently over 1,200 centers in New Jersey participate in the program.

CNSCC offers a morning Nursery School Program, a full-day Child Care Program and a Kindergarten Wrap-Around Afternoon Program. The play-based, year-round program focuses on nurturing and educating the whole young child in a Christian setting and serves over 150 students age 2½-6 years.

"We are excited to begin our 25th year of ensuring our children are offered the highest quality educational experiences during this critical time in their development," said Director Stacy Nick. "The Grow NJ Kids program has allowed us to raise that bar even higher by providing additional resources and materials to our children and staff to enrich our program."

"Our congregation founded our school in 1993 based on the belief that educating and nurturing young children are ways of sharing God's grace - helping them to love and respect others, themselves and all creation," said The Rev. Dr. Carol A. Lindsay, Pastor of Calvary Lutheran Church. "Our school's ministry continues that important work today by bringing our congregation's welcome into the lives of people in our community."

Grow NJ Kids is a rigorous, research-based rating program administered by the New Jersey Departments of Children and Families, Education, Health, and Human Services. It offers child care and early learning programs access to training, professional development, staff scholarships for continuing education and targeted technical assistance. Professional raters visit a program to review quality standards, and program participants receive ratings by meeting an extensive list of quality benchmarks. CNSCC is located at 108 Eastman Street, Cranford.

DAUGHTERS OF AMERICAN REVOLUTION CELEBRATES CONSTITUTION WEEK

Submitted by: Mary Leonard, NJDAR

There are two documents of paramount importance to American history: the Declaration of Independence, which forged our national identity, and the United States Constitution, which set forth the framework for the federal government that is still in use today. While Independence Day is a beloved national holiday, fewer people know about Constitution Week, an annual commemoration of the living document that upholds and protects the freedoms central to our American way of life. This year the annual celebration begins September 17, 2018.

The Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) initiated the observance in 1955, when the organization petitioned the US Congress to dedicate September 17 - 23 of each year to the commemoration of Constitution Week. Congress adopted the resolution, and on August 2, 1956, President Dwight D. Eisenhower signed it into Public Law #915. The celebration's goals are threefold: to encourage the study of the historical events that led to the framing of the Constitution in September 1787; to inform people that the Constitution is the basis of America's great heritage and the foundation of our way of life; and to emphasize US citizens' responsibility to protect, defend and preserve the Constitution.

DAR has been the foremost advocate for the awareness, promotion and celebration of Constitution Week. By fostering knowledge of and appreciation for the Constitution and the inalienable rights it affords to all Americans, DAR helps to keep alive the memory of the men and women who secured our nation's independence, whose bravery and sacrifice made possible the liberties we enjoy today.

One of the largest patriotic women's organization in the world, DAR has more than 185,000 members in approximately 3,000 chapters across the country and even in numerous foreign countries. Membership is open to any woman 18 years or older who can prove lineal, bloodline descent from an ancestor who aided in achieving American Independence. DAR strives to promote historic preservation, education and patriotism via commemorative events, scholarships and education initiatives, citizenship programs, service to veterans, meaningful community service, and more. For additional information about DAR and its programs and membership, visit dar.org.

TWO NEW SENIOR CITIZEN PROGRAMS THIS FALL

Cranford Recreation and Parks Department would like to announce that there are two new senior citizen programs being offered at the Cranford Community Center this fall. Registration is open at Cranford Recreation Department. Residents of Cranford only.

"Tone-Up," a class structured for seniors which will incorporate strength training, balance and flexibility. Class will be held at the Cranford

Community Center on Friday mornings from 10:30 a.m. – 11:15 a.m.

"Intro to Pickleball," a paddle sport that combines elements of badminton, tennis and table tennis. Knowledge of the game is not required.

Class will be held at the Cranford Community Center on Thursday mornings from 9:30 a.m. – 12:00 p.m.

POLICE IMPLEMENTS SPECIAL NEEDS REGISTRY

The Cranford Police Department is taking steps to make it easier to help our residents who may be lost or have trouble communicating with officers. Our new Special Needs Registry is specifically designed for those who may be challenged with developmental disabilities such as Autism, Dementia, Down Syndrome, or other special needs.

The program was formed to better assist loved ones who might be at a higher risk for wandering from home and getting lost. By voluntarily registering, the Cranford Police Department will have access to personal information should they encounter an individual who has difficulty speaking or identifying themselves.

Interested family members will be asked to complete a descriptive questionnaire regarding their family member in need, providing the registrant's height, weight, and other information useful to first-responders, such as emergency contacts, a recent photo of the individual and their home address.

The information will be kept on file at Police Headquarters and will be accessible at times such as during an encounter where an individual can't tell officers where they live, or in cases where a person is reported missing, so that their information and photograph are immediately available to responding police officers.

The program is completely voluntary and all the information kept on file will remain confidential within the Cranford Police Department.

To complete and file a registration form, or for more information, contact Officer John Rattigan of the Cranford Police Department's Community Policing Unit at 908-272-8989.

CRANFORD FIRST AID SQUAD FUND DRIVE

Submitted by Kent Lucas, President

The Cranford First Aid Squad fundraising letter has been mailed to all Cranford residents.

It is a surprisingly common misconception that the First Aid Squad is part of the Cranford Township and that it is funded by tax dollars. This is not the case.

The Cranford First Aid Squad is an all volunteer, independent non-profit agency which must raise all its own funding for its operation. We own and maintain our building and ambulances. It is an expensive undertaking.

We took 1132 calls in 2017 and transported over 700 patients to 11 different hospitals. We do not and never have billed our patients.

Please take the time to make a donation. We are extremely cost conscious and can only operate through the generosity of each of you. Any amount is greatly appreciated.

Your tax-deductible donation can be mailed to:

CALVARY LUTHERAN CHURCH HOLDS MATTRESS FUNDRAISER FOR JERSEY BATTERED WOMEN'S SERVICES ON SUNDAY, SEPTEMBER 23

Calvary Lutheran Church is holding a Mattress Fundraiser. That's right - a mattress fundraiser. On Sunday, September 23, from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m., Calvary's Fellowship Hall will turn into a Mattress showroom. The fundraiser offers all size mattresses - Twin, Full, Queen, and King - from popular brand names at up 50% off retail price. Firm, Orthopedic, Memory Foam and other options will be offered. They all come with a full factory warranty. Layaway and delivery are available.

Every purchase benefits Jersey Battered Women's Services or Lutheran Haven, a home for residents with mental health needs. You can also buy a mattress and donate it directly to either organization.

Calvary's Mattress Fundraiser is part of the Evangelical Lutheran Church of America's (ELCA) "God's Work, Our Hands" Sunday. "For we can do far more when God's power is at work within us than when we try on our own." (Ephesians 3:20)

Calvary Lutheran Church is located at 108 Eastman St. in Cranford. For more information call the church office at (908)276-2418 or check out our website calvarycranford.com.
